VVOL. LXIII. No. 1. REDWOOD CITY, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, APRIL 1, 1922. ESTABLISHED 1859

CITIZENS TO DECIDE ON PURCHASE OF WATER COMPANY'S PLANT

Cost Will Be $30,000 and Can Be Paid From Money Saved by Buying the Property

On April 10 next the people of Redwood City will be called upon to vote upon bonding the town for $30,000 to purchase the plant of the Redwood City Water Company.

Prior to 1903 the city owned the entire water system, the source of supply as well as distribution system, the water being obtained from wells at the old water works at Phelps and Chestnut streets. As the demand for more water came the city spent thousands of dollars sinking wells in the eastern portion of town in an attempt to increase the supply but failed and the city trustees called a meeting of representative citizens of the town to discuss the water situation. A number of sources of water supply were investigated and the city finally determined that it could not undertake to develop another supply.

Thereupon the Redwood City Water Company, consisting of local business men, was organized and entered into a contract with the city to supply it with water and commenced the drilling of wells at the location of the present plant and has continued from that time to this to supply water to the city and the city has retailed the same to the consumers through the municipal distribution system, the value of the city's distribution system being about $165,000 and of the company's plant about $30,000.

The last contract between the city and the company expired on March 1, 1921, and the company requested a raise in rates from 12½ cents to 18½ cents for the reason that the cost of power, labor and materials had so increased in value that the company was practically receiving no return on the money invested. The trustees, realizing that the company was entitled to a raise and also realizing that if the raise asked were granted it would amount to an increase of about $6,000 a year which would in all probability force the trustees to raise the rates to consumers, decided to ask the water company for what price they would sell their plant to the town, at the same time having the city engineer report to the board value and condition of the plant. The report of the engineer showed that the plant was of the present value of about $32,000 and the company agreed to sell to the town for $30,000.

Thereupon the trustees, feeling that if the city purchased the plant they would not have to make any increase in rates and possibly would reduce them, decided to submit the matter to the people at the election on April 10 next. There is no question as to the advisability of purchasing this plant for the same can and will be paid for out of money that otherwise would have to be paid the company in increased rates. At a saving of $6,000 a year in an increased rate to the company the plant will be paid for in five years.

The water produced at the company's wells is regularly tested at both Stanford University and the University of California and all the reports show that while the water is hard it is not injurious to health and is as good as any well water on the peninsula.

Of course we all some day hope to be able to have Hetch Hetchy water, but it is estimated that it will be at least ten years before that arrives and the purchase of this plant by the city will not in any way interfere with procuring the same, as the city will have it paid for long before the Hetch Hetchy water arrives and in so paying for it will not be paying any more than we would otherwise have to pay the company in increased rates. In other words, by purchasing the plant at the city election we will get what we are paying for, while if the plant is not purchased the water consumers will have to pay an added burden of six thousand dollars a year in increased rates, and if the plant is purchased by the $30,000 bond issue it will be paid for by a small tax levy covering several years and the owners of property who are not water consumers will pay their just share thereof.

SUPERVISORS STAND PAT ON SANITARY DISTRICT ORDER

At the special meeting of the supervisors Monday morning the whole question of the sanitary districts elections was discussed and the conclusion was reached that the former order of the board calling an election for the formation of the Washington sanitary distrit should stand. Those opposing the proposition presented affidavits to the effect that not enough property holders had put their names to the Washington district petition. In opposition to this J. J. Bullock, attorney for the Washington district advocates, said that was a question for the courts to decide. The board of supervisors coincided with this view and refused to rescind its former order.

Bruno Boezinger was granted permisison to lay water pipe on Land Hill road for irrigation purposes.

The county engineer was instructed to investigate the complaint of Christ Stader of Beresford that his premises were being flooded because of insufficient size of drainage culverts. He also kicked because the ditches were being used as open sewers by people of the vicinity.

LAND SALE APPROVED

Judge Buck on Thursday confirmed the sale of ten acres of land on the Woodside road in East Greenwood belonging to the Mary B. Hansen estate to Andrew Jacobinson and wife of San Francisco for $5,400. The new owners are to develop the choice property.

AVENILO ACQUITTED ON CHARGE OF BURGLARY

August Avenilo, charged with burglary committed on the Christenson ranch near Colma on January 26, was acquitted of the charge by a jury in the superior court Thursday. There being no evidence presented by the district attorney to convict the young man, the court instructed the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty, which the jury did. George Rose and William Avenilo, who were charged with being accomplices with August Avenilo and who plead guilty to a charge of burglary some time ago, were given intendterminate sentences at San Quentin.

SEWERS TO BE PLACED IN NEW DISTRICTS

Last Monday evening the town council held a special meeting and adopted resolutions of intention as presented by City Attorney Mansfield calling for installation of sewer mains on Ramona street, Sequoia avenue, Oliver street, Oak avenue, Redwood avenue extension and on Roosevelt avenue extension. Bids will be asked for early in May.

City Engineer Dimmitt reported concerning the piling under the high school manual training building. It is contended that this is the cause of overflowing of the creek in the rear of the school and flooding of Broadway during the storms and high tides this year. It was suggested by the engineer that the piling be removed to the middle of the channel and a concrete wall be constructed on one side with girders stretched across the channel. This would remedy existing conditions. The report was referred to the trustees of the high school for their consideration.

AUTO MIXUP ON ROAD TOLD IN SUIT IN COURT

Abraham L. Sams has brought a suit in the superior court against F. W. Hanchett and others to recover the sum of $10,360.80 for personal injuries sustained through the alleged carelessness of the defendants who operate the Pacific auto stage that runs between San Francisco and San Jose. Plaintiff was a passenger on the stage line and was thrown from the big bus on December 27, 1921, near Belmont and received serious injuries. A. A. Rogers of San Francisco and Ross & Ross of this city are attorneys for plaintiff.

SPLENDID PROSPECTS FOR CALIFORNIA THIS YEAR

"California is entering upon what promises to be one of the finest seasons experienced in many years, if anything may be judged from agricultural conditions."

This is the estimate formed by W. W. Douglas vice president of the Bank of Italy, who has just returned from an extended tour of the bank's branches throughout the state.

"Everyone seems to expect that California will produce bumper crops year after year, and while performances would justify this impression, nevertheless it seems to me that 1922 will be even better than the popuar expectation. The rains have been most timely and as a result the crops in nearly every locality are in excellent condition. I found this to apply through the Sacramento, San Joaquin, Salinas and Santa Clara valleys as well as in the districts surrounding San Luis Obispo and Los Angeles.

"Not the least important consideration in this promising situation is the effect upon the mental attitude of the people all over California. On every hand there seems to be a feeling of optimism and confidence Although a great many were ready to admit that business was at present rather slack, all were united in the belief that prosperity is tugging at the latch string.

"Contrast this with the general feeling of unrest and fear expressed a year ago and you will readily see why I am of the opinion that California is entering upon such an era of prosperity. If with the adverse conditions which surrounded industry of every character a year ago, the state was able to do the things it did, then certainly in 1922 with both natural and mental conditions sc favorable, we may surely look for many broken production records."

ELECTION WILL BE LIVELY AFAIR ON APRIL 10

The city election will be held April 10 in the various precincts of Redwood City. Two trustees will be elected, the terms of Mayor Mark E. Ryan and Trustee George Kreiss expiring. There are three candidates in the field, the two gentlemen above mentioned, and Henry Beeger. Both Mr. Ryan and Mr. Kreiss have made good trustees and have been faithful to the trust which the people have reposed in them. Mr. Beeger is new in the political game, but as he is one of the most popular young men in town we pick him as a winner.

Henry Beeger

To an oldtimer in Redwood City the name of Henry Beeger stood for all that was progressive and sound. Henry Beeger was one of the early comers to Redwood City who had a vision of the possibilities of this city and was willing to match his work and intelligence with the existing conditions and build a name and a business in this community that have been real assets to our county seat. To the present generation the name of Henry Beeger calls to mind one of the best known and most highly respected young men of our community. Henry Beeger is seeking election as a town trustee at the election of April 10 and he will be elected. We say this without any peradventure of a doubt. We are glad to see a young man of Mr. Beeger's standing and ability offer himself for service on the city council. His father served there before him and he will be a worthy successor of a good father.

RISSO GETS THE CASH

Gustave Risso, the recently appointed deputy internal revenue collector for this district, made his first official visit here Monday. He came to collect delinquent taxes from 28 persons. Risso is a diplomat in dealing with the patrons of Uncle Sam. By his diplomacy and good sense he was able to collect a large sum from the delinquents, who paid the urbane and courteous official willingly. Had he been harsh and officious like many other government employes the money would not have been paid. It pays Uncle Sam to have such men as Mr. Risso in his service.

JUDGE SAYS NO PAY FOR POOR QUALITY PULP

Judge Buck has rendered the following opinion in the case of the Pacific Feed Company vs. Mrs. Joseph Kennel:

"The plaintiff sold to defendant a certain amount of beet pulp from the Salinas mills and of good quality. The pulp delivered to defendant by plaintiff was not from the Salinas mills nor was it of good quality. The pulp could not and was not used by defendant. Defendant attempted to feed the pulp to her cows and as a result four of her cows died and a large number of them were taken sick. Plaintiff sues for the agreed price of the pulp. It cannot recover. The defendant asks by way of counterclaim dagames for the four cows that died and also for the loss of the use of the milk cows by reason of feeding them the inferior quality of pulp. The only damaeg proved consisted of $500, the market value of the four cows that died by reason of their eating this bad pulp. No damage was proved for the loss of the milk of the thirteen cows or for their decrease in value. Judgment for defendant for $500."

James T. O'Keefe represented the defendant in the suit.

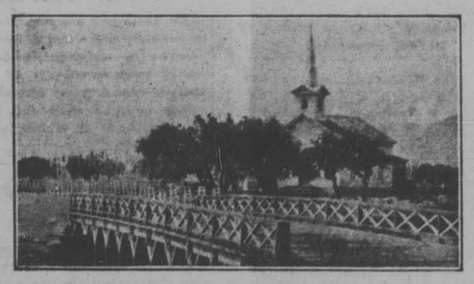
LAST SERVICE IN OLD CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH

Tomorrow will be the last time the members of the Redwod City Congregational church will worship in the old building which has served as a house of worship for so many years. In the morning Rev. C. H. Stevens will talk about the work done in the old church. In the evening at 7:30 a special service will be held which will be in the nature of a backward look.

Dr. L. D. Rathbone, who was pastor from 1887 to 1896, will speak of the former pastors. Miss Clara M. Shelley will read a short history of the organization and Roy W. Cloud will talk about some of the people who worshiped and worked in the local church in the bygone days.

Next week Gus Waller, the local contractor, will begin to tear down the old building so that he can begin on the erection of the new $30,000 edifice which he is to construct.

The Congregational church was built early in 1864 and dedicated on May 24 of that year during the pastorate of Rev. G. W. Finney. It was a wonderfully fine building for the time and was one of the first structures located on what was then called the "Island." It has withstood storms an dearthquakes during the 58 years of its service, but it must now give way to the march of progress.



The original Congregational Church, added to from time to time until the present structure was obtained.

HEDGE AND BEHRENS WIN

L. P. Behrens and and James D. Hedge were elected by substantial majorities at the high school election held throughout the Sequoia Union High School district yesterday. Mr. Brown, the Runnymede candidate, was a poor third in the race.

If a man had no tongue and was unable to write he would never get into trouble.

DIVORCE GRANTED

Yesterday Judge Buck granted an interlocutory decree of divorce to Mrs. Gertrude Pacheco from her husband, Alberto Pacheco, on her cross complaint, filed by her attorney, J. J. Bullock. The community property at San Mateo was awarded to Mrs. Pacheco. She was also given the custody of the minor children.

EXPECTS NEW RECORD TO BE MADE AT SAN CARLOS

Barney Oldfield, hero of a hundred battles on the speedways and tracks of the world, predicts the establishment of a new world's record on Easter Sunday, April 16, when the Golden Gate motor derby will be staged on the San Francisco speedway at San Carlos.

Oldfield bases his prediction upon two prominent factors—the first is the fact that the San Francisco speedway is the fastest track in the world and the second is the entry of Tommy Milton in the big Easter Sunday race when the drivers will compete for a golden purse.

Milton by his brilliant performance during 1921 won the world's championship honors. Already he has taken the lead in the 1922 contests by winning the Los Angeles classic in February. The car he drives is the same which he will enter in the Indianapolis race on Decoration Day. He has injected more pep and speed into his steed than it ever possessed and those who have seen him perform since rejuvenating his motor declare he has never before traveled with such speed.

But Milton is not so confident. He declares that he is keeping a keen eye on such nervy and heady drivers as Harry Hartz and Peter de Paola Jimmy Murphy no longer worries him, he says, but the younger drivers are mounted on lightning steeds and show remarkable generalship on the speedways.

SWART DISCHARGED FROM CHARGE OF CONTEMPT

On Wednesday Judge George H. Buck discharged the order to show cause directed against District Attorney Franklin Swart, resulting from the recent attempt to hold an election for the formation of the Fair Oaks sanitary district near Five Points, after the action of the board of supervisors calling the election had been annulled.

Swart had advised the election officers to proceed with the election, it had been alleged, notwithstanding the annullment of the call by the court. The officers who did serve were fined $50 each for contempt.

The following able opinion has been handed down by Judge Buck:

"In the month of February this year the board of supervisors attempted and did so far as they could establish a purported sanitary district in this county called the Washington sanitary district. Immediately thereafter the said board attempted to carve out of the sanitary district thus formed a portion of the land included therein for the purpose of forming out of said land thus carved out a sanitary district to be called the Fair Oaks sanitary district and did as far as they could establish said Fair Oaks sanitary district. The matter being brought before the court by writ of certiorari this court held that the board of supervisors having acted upon the petition for the formation of the Washington sanitary district, the board was without authority to further legislate in regard to the land included in the Washington sanitary district until the election was held as ordered by said board and vacated the proceedings had and taken by said board in regard to the Fair Oaks sanitary district. The Fair Oaks sanitary district undertook to hold an election notwithstanding the order of the court vacating the proceedings of the board of supervisors had and taken in that matter—claiming that the district was acting under the advice of the respondent. The board of election of that district was cited to appear in this court to show why the members of that board should not be punished for contempt of court. It appeared from their admission and from affidavits thereafter filed that each member of the board of election knew of the order of the court made in the matter, but claimed they were acting under the advice of the respondent and upon proper proceedings being had the respondent was cited to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court. Unfortunately, technical objections were raised, and after argued by attorneys for respondent and overruled by the court, respondent filed a counter affidavit and also gave testimony in open court. From the affidavits filed herein the court might well find the respondent guilty of contempt of court. But from the testimony of the respondent given in open court at the hearing of this matter it would appear that the respondent did not intend any contempt of court. It is always the duty of the court when a doubt is raised to give to the party charged with any offense the benefit of that doubt—so in this matter the respondent raising doubt in the mind of the court by his testimony herein he is entitled to the benefit of that doubt and the order to show cause herein is hereby discharged."

BIG DOINGS AT BABLYON

C. W. Clark, the Hillsborough millionaire, was host to 25 friends at Babylon last Saturday night. This large party, together with the usual week end guests crowded the resort. All enjoyed the tempting supper and the sweet strains of the classy music. Babylon is rapidly becoming the mecac for those wishing to spend the week end at that delightful place where the meals are unexcelled and where the accommodations are the very best.

DEMPSEY AND LEWIS WILL STAGE SPECTACULAR CONTEST IN CALIFORNIA

Will Decide Superiority of Boxing or Wrestling at Stanford Stadium Early in the Summer

The most unique and remarkable athletic contest of the century is to be witnessed in California during the coming year. Jack Dempsey, the champion heavyweight pugilist of the world, and Ed Lewis, world's champion wrestler, have agreed to fight to a finish to demonstrate whether boxing or wrestling is the superior method of fighting. The Times-Gazette is able to announce today that the spectacular struggle will be held at the stadium at Stanford about the commencement time. It will be an event of a public spirited nature, as both contestants have agreed to donate their services and the proceeds from admssions will go toward the $3,000,000 endowment fund that is being raised.

The stadium is an ideal place for the contest and the time of year could not be better. At the present time, with the big field reserved for football and other games, there is seating capacity for 60,000 people. More seats could be placed in the space now occupied by the athletic grounds and thus accommodations made for more than 100,000 spectators.

The negotiations have been conducted with the greatest secrecy. As Lewis lives at San Jose it was easy to get him to agree, as he is intensely proud of his home locality and is willing to do anything in his power to advance its interests. Dempsey was not hard to convince that it would be a splendid thing for him. It was pointed out that the university has boxing and wrestling in its athletic curriculum and a contest of the kind proposed would be a strong incentive to excellence in these lines on the part of the students. They have had leaders in other lines to instruct them, so it seemed only fair that the highest exponents of these two branches of athletics should do their share toward the upbuilding of ideals in this line.

An immense sum will be realized from the event. At least half a million dollars will be received from the sale of seats. Added to this will be the moving picture royalties, which will also go to the university endowment fund. That should amount to millions, as people all over the world will swarm to every movie house to behold the two athletes in action. It is probable that ultimately the whole of the $3,000,000 desired will be secured from this source.

One most attractive feature of the whole affair is that there will be no war tax collected, as entertainments given for the benefit of education are not subje tcto tax.

Several other contests of most spectacular interest are being arranged for the afternoon's entertainment. If all the events now under consideration can be secured it will be an event that will be the sensation of the sporting world for years to come.

ALL FOOLS' DAY

MARRIED AT SANTA CRUZ

Without letting their many friends in on a little scret ,Miss Ragnes Thompson and Ralph Hallett, popular young people of this city, sped away to the quiet precincts of Santa Cruz by the sea and were married last Monday. After spending a few days in the classic shades of Carmel the young couple returned to Redwood City on Wednesday to receive the congratulations of their numerous friends. They have taken temporary quarters at the Elite apartments.

Mrs. Hallett is the pretty and charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. John Thompson and sister of Eric Thompson, the well known abstract and title insurance man. The bridegroom is a son of Harry E. WANTS JURY TRIAL

George H. Howard, who is contesting the will of his stepfather, the late H. P. Bowie, made application to the court yesterday for a jury trial. The date of the trial has not been set but will shortly be placed on the calendar. Bowie left the greater portion of his $200,000 estate to two Japanese children in Japan, alleged to be his two sons. The trial is certain to be replete with sensational features.

FAMOUS ORCHESTRA TO PLAY HERE THIS EVENING

The original "Columbian" orchestra de luxe, known throughout the United States for their syncopated harmony playing in the principal cities many times, will furnish the music for the ball to be given at Foresters' Hall this evening. The musicians are artists, every one a master of his own particular instrument, with "Billy" Hammond (himself) recognized as the world's foremost exponent of the saxophone. Dance and hear them in person play their own syncopated melodies. Dancing will begin promptly at 8 p. m.

DREDGER FINISHES JOB

The dredger that has been in the water near the codfish plant at the water front for a long time is being dismantled this week preparatory to being shipped to southern California to be pressed into reclamation work. The dredger was sent here to make a test of the shell banks for a cement company to ascertain the ingredients of the mud and shells as a basis for manufactuing cement. It was found that the ingredients were all there and the company immediately purchased the adjoining lands, paying the sum of $90,000. Work has been delayed from time to time on the cement plant. However, the work of installation of machinery is to begin shortly; at least this is the information given out at the headquarters of the company.

A LITTLE POLITICS

With the primary elections just five months off politics are beginning to shape themselves and politicians are becoming active, moving about preparing to throw their hats into the political arena. This is going to be an active season for candidates seeking the state, district and county offices.

Senator Hiram W. Johnson will seek re-election. It looks now as though he will have no opponent. There is no one with sufficient courage that will come out in the open and oppose him. Mr. Johnson has a strong organization in the state, he is fearless and sincere in the discharge of his senatorial duties and besides he is loved by the people of the state of California for his frankness, honesty of purpose and wonderful achievements. There is no man in the state who could begin to measure swords with the great senator in a political battle. He could easily defeat any opponent. It may be taken for granted that he will be unopposed at the primary election.

Governor Stephens will have a spirited contest for re-election, but he will win. He has a splendid organization, has made a good governor, has been economical in the expenditure of state funds and above and beyond all has carefully watched the people's interests, showing wisdom in all his acts. No scandal has taken place during his administration, which demonstrates the careful manner in which he has made all his appointments. State institutions are conducted economically, efficiently and on a practical basis. Governor Stephens is admired and loved my the people of California for the efficient manner in which he conducts his office His re-election is almost assured

He will be opposed by F. W. Richardson, who will have the backing of a large portion of the country press. He has no organization, however, but he has many friends who will work with diligence for him.

It is more than likely that Mayor James Rolph will come into the contest. He will be a strong candidate. But he is not as popular as he was four years ago when he captured the Democratic nomination and came near grabbing the Republican endorsement. He has no organization, but has many friends and admirers.

The contest for judge of the supreme court will be spirited. Justice Wilbur is seeking the chief justiceship. Judge Charles A. Shurtleff and Judge Sloan are candidates for the long term of 12 years each. They will be opposed by others. They were appointed to the supreme bench by Governor Stephens. The three judges are endorsed by the state bar association and by the leading lawyers of the state who have had an opportunity to know their worth and capabilities. With this endorsement they are certain of election. Judge Shurtleff is a resident of Menlo Park, is an able and fearless judge who always does his duty regardless of consequences. His vote in San Mateo county will be almost unanimous.

Arthur M. Free, congressman for this district, has made good at Washington. Although a new man at the capital he has accomplished considerable good for his district. His opposition will be only negligible. He is sure to be returned with a larger vote than two years ago, when he was elected by a tremendous majority.

It is generally conceded that there will be but little stir in county politics this year. The incumbents have their fences so well repaired and so solid that a cat could not crawl through them. It may be said at this time that all the county officials will be re-elected without opposition. The only office that will be contested for will be that of sheriff. Mr. Sheehan announced some time ago that he would not seek the place for another term Undersheriff H. W. Lampkin and Frank P. Roach of Menlo Park will most likely enter the contest for the office. Other men are mentioned, but it is within the realm of posibility that the contest will simmer down to the two native sons, both of whom have a large following in the county.

Assemblyman Frank Eksward will have serious opposition for re-election. It is possible that Attorney C. N. Kirkbride of San Mateo will come into the fight. If he does he would be elected. Then too, young Charles McCracken of Redwood City, an ex-service man, may consent to make the race. He is being urged by his friends to do so. Others are also spoken of. So the assembly fight may be a free for all affair. Those mentioned are all Republicans. The Democrats are shy about coming forward.

Roy W. Cloud, superintendent of schools, who has hod no opponent since his first election, will be unopposed this year. He has conducted his office in such a competent and capable way that the taxpayers are only too anxious to retain him in the position. The teachers, too, with whom he is very popular, are unanimous for him as supenitendent.

It will be clear sailing for Mrs. Elizabeth M. Nash, the popular county clerk. She will be the unanimous choice of the voters of the county for that office at the primary election. She will have no opposition. There is no one who would have the temerity to try conclusions with so popular, efficient and able an official. Without doubt she has made the best county clerk the county has ever had. She has gathered about her a corps of able assistants. It is safe to say that no county clerk's office in the state is conducted with more efficiency than that of San Mateo county.

Tax Collector A. McSweeney, who for many years has greeted the taxpayer as he entered his office to settle with the county with a smile, is unbeatable and will be re-elected without opposition. Mr. McSweeney has the happy faculty of making friends of all with whom he comes in contact and he has many admirers throughout the county who are anxious to have him retained in office. Mr. McSweeney may feel assured of his retention in his present position.

Assessor D. P Flynn is another official who need not worry about his election. The taxpayers are satisfied with his assessments. They know he makes the burden as light as possible for them. There is no doubt of his unanimous endorsement at the primary election.

George Kneese, the popular county surveyor, is a comparatively new man in office, but he has shown wonderful political tact and skill, so much so that he will not be opposed for re-election. Mr. Kneese is not only a genial gentleman but has demonstrated his fitness for his position by his splendid work on all occasions. Mr. Kneese has a commendable way of making friends and holding them.

C. T. Rice is another new man in office. He has developed such a superior knowledge of politics that there is no one in the county to be found to clash with him in a battle at the polls. His office is conducted on strictly business principles and with an efficiency and capability that reflect credit upon the ability of Mr. Rice. He is also to be re-elected without a contest.

Auditor J. J. Shields has conducted his office so well that the taxpayers are to re-elect him without opposition Mr. Shields is a courteous and painstaking official who makes it a point to please all who have business with his office. No one goes away with a grouch when they have spoken to the good looking and genial auditor. He need not fear any opposition—he will have none.

Treasurer P. P. Chamberlain, who has handled the funds of the county for 40 years and has annually accounted for every cent of the millions that have passed through his hands, will be continued in office and will have no opponent at the coming election. He is tried and true and the people are satisfied that he should continue to care for the strong box as long as he wants to. He, too, is to have no opposition.

There are two supervisors to be chosen this year—one from the fifth township and one from the second township. Dr. Thompson of Pescadero will enter the race for re-election. Up to date he has no contender, but it is said that a certain coterie of politicians in the township is grooming a dark horse to be trotted out in a month or two.

Mrs. W. H. Brown will seek re-election in the second township. There is going to be a big political scrap there for the office M. J. Conway of San Mateo and Jack Duffy of Burlingame have placed their hats in the ring. Jack Duffy has plenty of pep and a pleasing personality that is sure to get him votes. At this writing it is said he is in the lead and is to finally win the coveted goal. This may or may not be so. Take it for what it is worth, but remember the prophecy.

In the third township Constable M. H. Walsh will have no contender for the constableship, nor will Judge Ray Griffin have an opponent for the justiceship. Both have served their contsituenta faithfully and deserve to be endorsed by them. They will be re-elected.

Superior Judge George H. Buck's term does not expire for four years and the term of Supervisor John MacBain not until 1924. If both ran this year they would not have any opposition.

Senator M. B. Johnson does not run this year Two years from now, however, there will be a scrap on for the senatorship. We could tell who the next senator will be, but won't.

As yet no one has announced his candidacy for the office of district attorney. It would seem that Franklin Swart will be alone in the race, although it is rumored that up in San Mateo a young attorney is being groomed for the race. Whether or not he will be trotted out is a matter of conjecture.

THE RHINE ARMY BILL

There seems to be an impression in Europe, shared by some editors in the United States, that Secretary Hughes in presenting the claim of this country for reimbursement of the cost of maintaining the American army on the Rhine. The view is taken that the American observer present at the meeting of the allied finance ministers waited until they had reached an agreement for a division of the first billion gold marks received from Germany and then stepped in with a demand of priority for the American claim of $241,000,000.

Well, let us see. The American claim for payment of the costs of the American army of occupation was based originally on the terms of the armistice of November 11, 1918, which said that German territory was to be occupied "by the allied and United States forces jointly." It was then stipulated that "the upkeep of the troops shall be charged to the Geramn government." Later the Versailles treaty provided that out of the reparations 't'he expenses of the armies of occupation shall first be met." The United States did not become a party to that treaty, but under the terms of the separate treaty between this country and Berlin the United States "expressly reserves all rights, privileges, indemnities, reparations or advantages to which it became entitled under the terms of the armistice, or which, under the treaty of Versailles, have been stipulated for its benefit." Our troops were left in German territory at the urgent request of England and France on the plea that American troops would be more effective than allied forces in preserving peace. Those nations then agreed to see the United States reimbursed.

It may be said that the Hughes demand should have been directed to Germany. But he was confronted with a state of affairs. Germany can make no financial move except with the consent of the allies, who are on the ground with their reparations commission. We have no disposition commission. Every bit of war indemnity goes through that commission. We have no disposition to find fault with that arrangement so long as it does not infringe upon American rights under the Berlin treaty. When the commisison does interfere with those rights it is the duty of the secretary of state to protect them.

Now as to the abruptness of Mr. Hughes' action. The fact is that he strained diplomatic practice to the limit in giving the allied ministers opportunity to take cognizance of the American claim without the necessity of any reminder from Washington. Up to the very last minute when the agreement for division of the reparations payment was about to be signed, Mr. Hughes remained silent, but when it became apparent that the United States was to be ignored entirely he stepped in and recalled to the minds of the ministers the stipulations which should have governed their actions. Even then there was no insitsence upon immediate payment, but only an official recognition of the American claim.

This whole incident is but another manifestation of certain foreign ministers to shut the United States off from any share in the victory won in 1918. What this country has done in the way of money loans and supplies sent to the devastated regions since the war is sufficient proof that the United States has no grasping proclivities. Other nations have seized former German territory and other spoils of war, while this country has been content with vindicating its international rights. We intend, however, to collect the ordinary obligations due us from abroad

MAINE STANDS PAT

The Republicans have been very agreeably surprised and the Democrats severely disappointed by the result of the special election in the third congressional district of Maine. The Democrats expected an enormous slump in the Republican plurality. The Republicans, knowing that the election of 1920 reflected an abnormal situation, were free to admit that there would probably be a great reduction in the Republican lead. The result, however, shows that both were mistaken. The Republican candidate received 62 per cent of the total vote as compared with 66 per cent in the landslide of the year 1920.

In 1910 the third congressional district of Maine was carried by the Democrats. Since that time the percentage of votes by which the Republicans won was as follows:

1912	51 per sent
1914	51 per cent
1916	54 per cent
1918	58 per cent
1920	66 per cent
1922	62 per cent

Of course the Democrats, pursuing their usual policy of manipulating figures to deceive the public, will call attention to the fact that the majority at the special election in 1922 is far smaller than the majority at the general election in 1900. They will ignore the fact that the smaller majority was due to the decreased vote. In every state and in every congressional district there is always a smaller vote in a special election than in a general election where the importance of the contest and the number of offices to be filled draws a larger number of voters to the polls. The only fair way of determining the trend of public opinion is by a comparison of percentages. In this respect the showing is all to the credit of the Republican party.

Some weeks ago it was the effort of the Democratic managers to disseminate the idea that there is widespread disastisfaction with the Harding administration, basing the claim on the attitude of President Harding toward the league of nations and his refusal to fall in line with the internationalist idea that we should sacrifice American interests in an effort to revive Europe. Their position in this regard became untenable when there was a manifestation of enthusiasm over the results of the limitation of armaments conference. The Democrats then switched to the claim that the country is dissatisfied with the Republican congress and will overturn the Republican majority in the legislative branch of the government at the first opportunity. The vote in the Maine congressional election shows no intention on the part of the voters to take control of congress out of the hands of the Republican party.

An important incident in connection with the Maine election is the fact that a few weeks ago the city of Waterville, which is in the third congressional district, elected a Democratic municipal administration by a 10,000 plurality. This was claimed as a great Democratic victory and an evidence of a turn from the Republican party. That the issue then was purely local, however, is demonstrated by the fact that the Republican candidate for congress carried that city on March 20 by a 700 plurality, practically the normal Republican strength.

Better be a nobody that does nothing than a somebody that "does" everybody.

The man who is naturally lazy generally is unnaturally active in trying to conceal his laziness.

Fox and Geese Win $5 Bet

By CLAUDE FOX

Story No. 49

Later on, when the wild ducks had practically left the grain fields and puddling ponds and I had resorted to the scull boats as the only means left to acquire a string of birds, I was more successful in my efforts pursuing the wild geese than I had been during the earlier years, but I had occasion at several times to rout the big birds out of the stubble fields where they were formerly wont to go in large numbers in the days that had passed.

One day I had been down sculling and returned about 7 p. m. with but a few ducks. It was in the latter part of the season and the birds had been scattered by the heavy rains. On my way home I dropped in at the Arbor Bar to see my friend, George Genochio, and report the results of my hunt.

A bunch of congenial friends were discussing the political situation of the day, among them Johnny Johnston and the late James Curran, who passed away suddenly at the Brittain ranch but a short time ago. As I came up politics gave way to duck hunting for the time being and the boys wanted to know what luck I had.

"How is it," said Johnston, "that there are very few geese around any more?"

"There is very little grain planted," I replied, "and the birds have gone elsewhere."

"That's a devil of a ranch of yours, Jim," I said to Curran. "There used to be lots of geese down there. Why don't you feed them a little grain?"

"There hasn't been a goose on the ranch this year," replied Jim.

"I'll tell you what I'll do," said Johnston. "I'll bet you $5 that Claude can go down and kill three geese on the Sweeny ranch and have them here Tuesday morning by 9 o'clock."

Now everyone who knew Jim Curran personally knows that he would bet on any proposition at the drop of a hat. He was farming on the Sweeny ranch then and had made the statement that no wild geese had been on the place that year and I think it rather nettled him to have Johnny Johnston dispute his word.

"I'll take you," replied Curran as he threw a $5 gold piece on the bar, which Johnston covered, the bet was made and Jack Genochio selected as stakeholder.

Personally I thought Johnny Johnston had made a very unwise bet, but he would back his opinion as quickly as would Jim Curran. I had not been down on the Sweeny ranch for at least a month and I knew that the only wild geese in the marshes were a large flock of the white or snow geese which I had seen nearly every day flying over to the Crystal Springs lake. It had been customary for these birds to fly in from the marsh at daybreak, feed in the fields and then go on over to the lake at about noon, but if they still followed that route Jim Curran would surely have seen them in the fields, for he drove down through the ranch nearly every day.

I could see that $5 of Johnston's acquiring wings very rapidly, but my reputation was at stake and I got busy that very night. Antonio Genochio had a lot of white goose decoys, made out of sheet tin and painted to resemble the snow goose. By placing these out in the stubble fields at different angles they made quite a showing and at a distance resembled the wild birds very much. Going down to Tony's he let me have the goose decoys and I laid my plans. It was Sunday evening and I had all Monday and Tuesday mornings to make good. Still I had no hopes of saving that $5 which Johnny Johnston had bet.

The fact of the placing of the bet was that we had a rather prolonged session at the Arbor that night, with the result that the next morning I overslept. It is the early bird that catches the worm when it comes to goose shooting and I had sacrificed one opportunity. Tuesday morning alone remained for me to make good. At 10 o'clock Monday, when I knew it was too late to do any thing with the decoys, I shouldered my gun and took a walk down the old road running through the ranch to see what the prospects were. When halfway down to the lone oak I heard the cackle of a flock of white geese and looking south saw them leaving the field below the old well and starting on their journey to the lake. My hopes ran high, for I knew if that flock had been coming into that field they would return Tuesday morning and I felt confident I could save Johnston's $5. The flock passed on by, but I did not shoot at them and I went on down to make an examination of the field from which they had come. A casual examination was all that was required. Evidence was found in plenty showing that the birds had been visiting the field for at least a week. We had just had a heavy rain and the old road running down through the ranch was not passable, so Jim Curran had been driving down the Middlefield road to the ranch, from which he could not see the geese.

Going back home I looked over the decoys and got everything ready for the following morning. Half an hour before it began to break day I had my tin decoys all set out, a trench dug in a dead furrow and I was ready for business.

Day started to break and I listened intently for that well known cackle, cackle, that precedes the coming of the white goose. It became lighter so that I could readily see for a distance of 200 yards. I was closely watching the cross fence down toward the marsh, when suddenly two geese appeared, with their wings set coming straight to the decoys. Lying back quickly in my trench the two passed by the decoys and so close to me that I could feel the wind from their wings across my face. Jumping up quickly and turning I killed one and missed the other. It was one of those dead easy shots which makes one too confident.

Hardly had I got covered up again when a whole flock came at once. I knew this time it was a case of do or die. That five-spot had to be saved now or never. With one goose down I had to secure two more. Pulling a handful of straw over my face I laid low and waited. They all started for the decoys and were soon hovering over them preparing to alight. At most any time I could have killed two or more, but I wanted to see how they worked to those tin decoys. It was rather amusing, for when the flock got directly over the decoys only the edge of the tin was visible and the wild birds would rise, circle off, and getting a side glance would come in again. Finally part of the flock started to alight just outside the decoys and as I had but a double barrel shotgun I concluded the time had arrived to make good. Rising slowly I let go with both barrels into the thickest part of the flock and was delighted to see three fall. It was rather a long shot, but the number four did the work. Before I had reloaded one of the geese which had been shot through the body got up and flew off into the edge of the marsh and dropped. I did not go after him, as I had three and I had to bring in the evidence by 9 o'clock.

Gathering up my decoys and my dead ones I reached home at 8:30 and left the geese with Jack Genochio, the stakeholder. All the boys were on deck that evening to see who had won the bet. Jim Curran seemed to have a slight suspicion that we had slipped one over on him, but he was a game sport and directed Jack to pay the money to Johnston. Johnny gave me the $5 he had won and we held a small reception that night at the expense of Jim Curran for losing a bet, which, when made, it was a 4 to 1 shot, he should have won.
